AMELIA EARHART TRANSCONTINENTAL FLIGHT ENDS AT COLUMBUS; GASOLINE PUMP FAULTY

RESUMES TOUR TOWARD EAST

Daring Aviatrix Was Unreported Since Leaving Los Angeles Yesterday

NOT DISAPPOINTED

Capt. Frank Hawks' Record Still Stands

NEWARK, N. J., July 13. — Amelia Earhart Putnam arrived today 11:18 p. m. (E. S. T.) at the Newark airport a one-stop flight across the continent. She flew here from Columbus after having left Los Angeles late yesterday.

PORT COLUMBUS, July 13.—Amelia Earhart Putnam's attempt to break the trancontinental nonstop flight record ran into "tough luck" early today when she was forced to bring her plane down at the Port Columbus airport here for repairs to a faulty gasoline pump.

The aviatrix resumed her trip eastward a little more than an hour later after her plane had been repaired and refueled with 141 gallons of gasoline Mrs. Putnam said she expected to reach New York within a few hours.

Mrs. Putnam brought her plane —the Lockhead-Vega in which she recently crossed the Atlantic— down at the airport here at 6:57 o'clock this morning after having been unreported since she took off from Los Angeles yesterday afternoon with hopes of smashing the transcontinental record held by Capt. Frank Hawks.

Amelia, her hair uncombed and her eyes showing lack of sleep, said she was not particularly disappointed with her failure to break the transcontinental record.

"I didn't think I could make it all the way, but I had to have a crack at it anyway," she told International News Service while inspecting her ship.

"I knew about four hours out that I couldn't make it, so I decided to set down in Columbus," she said. She explained that she had to use the "wobble pump" of her plane to force gasoline into the motor.

"And it proved too much for me after several hours," she said. "It was some work!"

The Aviatrix expressed surprise that anyone should feel alarmed regarding her wherebouts.

COURSE UNCHARTED

"I was on a compass course as there was no field or airport on my regular route. So I came to Columbus when I saw I was having trouble with my gasoline,"

Mrs. Putnam had breakfast in the airport restaurant while awaiting repairs on her plane.

NO THRILL SAYS WOOD

NEWARK, N. J., July 13.—Gar Wood, speed boat racer who won numerous records, said today there was little thrill in flying in a plane at 205 miles an hour compared to rushing through the waves in a boat.

He and Vance Breese, pilot, flew here from Buffalo in one hour 28 minutes, breaking the record for the flight between the two cities

"There's not nearly as much thrill going at 205 miles an hour in a plane as we did as going 100 miles an hour in a boat," Wood said.

From Oshkosh—B'gosh!—To Norway

All the way from Oshkosh, Wis., to Bergen, Norway, with only two intermediary stops in New Jersey and Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, is the program mapped out for this Stinson monoplane. Clyde Lee, 24-year-old pilot of Oshkosh (shown in inset), plans to take off from his home town in the near future on the daring trans-Atlantic attempt. He will be accompanied by 9-year-old Julius Robertson, of Negaunee, Mich., joint owner of the plane. If successful, they will be the youngest trans-Atlantic fliers on record.

Canning Company Sued For Teeth; Unknown

Cleveland Youth Claims Stone In Canned Peas Caused Damage.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff has received a summons to notify the New Holland Canning Co. that it has been sued by Anthony Pinzone, by his next best friend, Anna Pinzone, of Cleveland for $2,500, in Cuyahoga-co common pleas court.

After much search, Sheriff Radcliff discovered that the defendant could not be located in Pickaway-co and he returned the summons to Cuyahoga-co.

According to the sheriff, the plaintiff claims $2,500 as the result of damages to his teeth from eating peas canned by the unknown New Holland Canning Co.

Young Pinzone was eating some of the peas when he got hold of a stone, which cracked several of his teeth.

JURY FAVORS GIRL'S CLAIM

Harley Rutter Named Father of Girl's Child by Jury of 9 Men, 3 Women.

A verdict in favor of the plaintiff was returned in common pleas court Tuesday afternoon by a jury composed of nine men and three women, in the bastardy case of Hazel Iles of Logan-st against Harley Rutter of Fairview-ave.

The jury of which John E. Walters of Circleville-twp was foreman, deliberated 30 minutes. Other members of the jury were: J. E. Millirons, W. L. Mason, Mable Noggle, Mrs. C. H. Palm, Fred Lutz, Ben Morrison Anna Carpenter, Charles Peters, Henry Renick, Arlo Waliser and H. E. Betz.

I. F. Snyder represented Miss Iles and Louis M. Day of Chillicothe and J. E. Christian of Logan were attorneys for Rutter.

MARCHERS REST ON WHITE HOUSE LAWN

WASHINGTON, July 13 — The weird spectacle of more than 500 tattered bonus marchers asleep on the lawn of the United States capitol greeted pristine Washington today.

Ragged trousers loosened, broken shoes resting beside mile-worn feet, the tired veterans slept like dead men, with newspapers for blankets and their arms for pillows, on ground which signs boldly proclaimed taboo to trespassers.

BLAINE DITCH DECISION HELD BY SOLONS UNTIL SEPTEMBER

Hearing To Be Resumed Sept. 12 Before Commissioners in Madison-Twp Case

MANY INTERESTED

Motion For Dismissal Is Before Group

The Blaine ditch hearing conducted by the county commissioners Tuesday was continued until September 12 at 10 a. m.

The action was commenced by Kathryn Alkire Lucas for the straightening, widening, deepening and tiling of the ditch which will affect 2,200 acres of land in Madison-twp.

As the result of an action filed in 1924, Mrs. Lucas was granted a ditch, but this she claims will not take care of the drainage on her land.

OPPOSE PROJECT

A number of residents and landowners of Madison-twp, headed by Ernest D. Elaine are opposed to Mrs. Lucas' proposed project. In a petition they presented to the commissioners they say the proposed project is not necessary since the courts have already ordered the construction of a new ditch which will grant the same relief as sought by the petitioner and will afford even greater and more satisfactory relief.

The signers of this petition are Ernest D. Blaine, Nellie Burchnell, James C. Brien, Gus Sonner, J. T. Fitzgerald, Frank Morton, James Sheppard, Mary Longberry, Samantha Hosler, H. J. Taylor, T. H. Bennett, W. H. Gordon, C. P. Corkwell Adam Bailey, Bessie McCoy, William H Liston, Clarence L Corkwell and Elizabeth E. Corkwell.

The land of many of the above signers will be affected if the ditch is granted. It will take part of the route of Clarke's Run, a natural water stream.

SEEKS DISMISSAL

Charles H. May, attorney for Mr. Blaine and others, offered a motion that the petition of Mrs. Lucas be dismissed and the matter was taken under consideration by the county commissioners until their next hearing, Sept. 12.

I. F. Snyder and Mr. May represent Blaine and others and C. A. Weldon and Abernethy and Simkins are attorneys for Mrs. Lucas.

'Hizzoner' Easy Mark For 'Dip;' Watch "Stolen"

While he was talking to a group of friends at the city building Wednesday morning, Mayor B. T. Hedges' watch was taken from his pocket.

The mayor failed to discover the loss until several minutes after "the lift" took place.

Threatening the group, the mayor remarked, "That watch is worth $50 and I'll file a grand larceny charge against all of you."

A search revealed the timepiece in Officer Will McCrady's hip-pocket.

Harry "Timbuck" Timmons "confessed" to the robbery, remarking that he was only trying to give the mayor a good test.

The mayor was forced to admit that he was a poor observer.

MRS. EDDY, 93, IS DEAD IN SABINA

Mrs. Martha C. Eddy, aged 93, mother of Frank Eddy of W. Ohio-st, succumbed early Wednesday at her home in Sabina. Infirmities caused death.

Mrs. Eddy resided with her son here for a number of years removing to Sabina seven years ago.

Besides the son, two daughters, Miss Olive at home and Mrs. Ellsworth Spurrier of Norwood survive.

Although it is not definitely decided it is thought the funeral will be Friday.

STATE G. O. P. TO CONVENE FOR CONFAB

Convention to Be Moist But No More According to Opinion Concensus

HURLEY IS SPEAKER

Ingalls, Bettman to Follow Leaders

COLUMBUS, O., July 13.— The Republican state convention tomorrow and Friday will go moist —but no farther.

David S. Ingalls, candidate for governor, and Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, candidate for U. S. senator, have agreed to submerge their desire for a state plank for outright repeal and yield to administration demands for adherence to the national resubmission platform.

This was learned on good authority today as party leaders began arriving at the capital for the convention, which is to develop into a harsh attack on Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee.

FOLLOWS PLEAS

Ingalls, although a leading wet who has already come out flatly for repeal, will submit to pleas for internal harmony, and give support to the plank adopted at Chicago.

Bettman, according to his associates, will be "regular."

Although he conducted a vitriolic assult on the 18th amendment in the primaries, later decrying the so-called "straddle plank" at the national convention, when he appears before the state convention he will "go along" with the leaders.

He will accede, it is understood by his friends, to the requests of Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, U. S. Senator Simeon D. Fess and other administration leaders, that he join in trying to

RED CROSS TO AID REFUGEES

5,000 In Need of Help in West Virginia Area; Damage Is Great.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 13.—With a death toll standing at 21 and total damages estimated at approximately $2,500,000, Red Cross Relief workers prepared today to give aid for the next three weeks to 5,000 flood refugees in the Paint Creek and Armstrong Creek flood sectors.

Early this morning food and medical care had been given to nearly 400 families, according to Miss Bell Grave of the Red Cross contingent. Her estimate that 5,000 persons would have to be cared for in the next three weeks was shared by Constable Lee Davis of Eastbank.

FEAR DISEASE

One of the grave dangers threatening the region was that of disease. Relief workers were inoculating as many of the refugees as possible against typhoid fever. The food problem was a serious threat also. Hundreds of the flood victims, it was reported, face starvation.

U. S. TO FACE TWO POWERS

France and Great Britain Join Hands In Seeking Debt Reductions.

PARIS, July 13.—A new entente cordiale, binding Great Britain and France in a common stand on war debts and strengthening the European front toward the United States, will be announced shortly, it was learned on reliable authority today.

Preparation of the Franco-British entente, first revealed by the Agence Economique Et Financiere, owned by Senator Henri Bergemer, former French ambassador to the United States, was later confirmed in well-informed quarters.

The entente, it was learned, will strengthen the "gentlemen's agreement" reached during the Lausanne reparations conference insofar as it bears on the Gaillaux-Churchill debt accord.

It will exempt France from paying 600,000,000 francs in war debts due shortly to Britain. This amount would have been demanded from France were it not for the agreement reached at Lausanne covering the inter-allied debts.

FINED $50, COSTS

Finley Dyson of S. Clinton-st, was fined $50 and costs and committed to the Columbus workhouse until fine and costs are paid, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct before Mayor B. T. Hedges Wednesday.

He was arrested at his home on S. Clinton-st at 3:45 a. m. Wednesday.

OBTAINS DIVORCE

John W. Eshelman Jr., is temporarily working with Mr. Beidleman.

BELIEVE PLAN OF PRESIDENT TO NAME CITY

Circleville on Preferred List in Federal Program, Underwood Says

RELIEF IS OBJECT

Many Cities Will Lose Project Plans

WASHINGTON, July 13.— No matter how many postoffices in his district are cut out of the Garner bill, Representative Mell Underwood will be satisfied if the relief bill as finally enacted provides real relief, he declared today.

Circleville will get its project from the revamped relief bill which will be passed following President Hoover's veto, according to current word about the Capitol, but many other projects which were not on the preferred list will be lost in the new act.

SEEKING RELIEF

However, the public building program has been only a means to the end of providing employment, Underwood pointed out, and "the thing to do is for us to get an adequate relief bill of some kind passed."

He plainly indicated that he would not object to a Hoover bill or any other kind of a bill if it contained real relief provisions.

"I regret that the President has taken the position he has in regard to individual loans," he said "but the only thing we can do is to help put across as good a bill as possible."

He said he believed loans to individual communities, which would enable cities such as Chillicothe to borrow for relief work and to help provide jobs, would be left in.

HOUSE HEARS PRESIDENT'S RELIEF BILL

Measure Expected to Be Passed Today Signature Later in Day

SESSION NEAR END

Several New Provisions Follow Veto

WASHINGTON, July 13.— The $2,122,000,000 relief bill revised to meet President Hoover's demand was called up in the House today with leaders promising passage in record time.

The measure then will go to the Senate and an effort will be made to reach an agreement so that the bill can reach the White House tonight.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Congress neared the end of the trail on jobless relief legislation today, with indications that a $2,122,000,000 measure revised to meet President Hoover's demands, may reach the White House by night. Speedy action may make possible adjournment of Congress on Friday.

The House was prepared to enact a relief program conforming exactly to Mr. Hoover's wishes, following approval of a revised Garner-Wagner relief program by the Senate.

One major provision unacceptable to the president was in the bill as the Senate sent it to the House, with a few minor provisions also said to be out of harmony with Mr. Hoover's ideas on a measure to relieve the needy and create employment.

DIRECT LOAN CLAUSE

As the revised measure passed the Senate it contained a new feature proposed by Sen. Glass (D) of Virginia, permitting Federal Reserve banks to loan money directly to private corporations under restrictions. Although administration senators approved the provision, the President was understood to dislike it.

The Senate tossed away its dinner hour and toiled at a night session to complete the measure which, it was hoped, would win White House approval. In order to hasten final action, the revised measure was made a rider to the Warren road bill which had al-

BENDER SEEKS G. O. P. ACTION

Former Official to Fight For Vote In Favor of Amendment Repeal.

CLEVELAND, July 13.—A determined fight to have Ohio Republicans declare themselves in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment will be waged by former State Senator George H. Bender of Cleveland at the Republican state convention he announced today.

Scorning the attempt of Republican chieftains to draft a platform that will be in harmony with the national G. O. P. prohibition plank, Bender maintained that Republican voters have demonstrated they are for repeal and the platform adopted therefore should include a repeal plank.

ORDERED TO CURB YOUTH IS KILLED

CLEVELAND, July 13.— Unknown assailant today forced Marshall Wallace, 23, a trucking contractor, to drive his car into a curb of an isolated east side street where they murdered him in cold blood, according to police.

Wallace died almost instantly from a bullet wound in the chest. Two shots, police said, had been fired into the expensive coupe the victim had been driving.

Relatives of the man who identified him at the county morgue, were unable to suggest any motive for the killing to police. An immediate search for an automobile which sped away from the scene after the two fishermen heard two shots fired, was launched.

Libby Holman, Calmed by Opiates, Goes to Home of Parents in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, July 13—Successfully eluding curious crowds, Libby Holman Reynolds arrived at Clare, an isolated railroad junction eight miles ont of Cincinnati, today and was scurried away secretively to the fashionable hove of her sister, Mrs. Myron Kahn, in Wyoming, a suburb in the family's limousine.

ENROUTE TO CINCINNATI, July 13 — Calmed by opiates Libby Holman Reynolds rode westward today toward the middle class apartment of her parents, on the outskirts of Cincinnati, from which she leaped to fame as stage star and fortune as the wife of Smith Reynolds. The opiates, according to her father, Albert Holmes, were found necessary to dull the immense mental pain from which his daughter is suffering.

"We had to use them," he said.

Mrs. Reynolds will forswear stage and devote herself to her expected child

NOT TO STAGE

"I feel that I don't ever want to see New York again she was quoted by her father as saying 'Certainly I'll never go back to the stage. How could I after this?"

Her plans are vague, according to her father. She may await the birth of her child, due in seven months, at her sister's home outside of Cincinnati Afterward she expects to take up residence in an unfamiliar locality

"I'll never, never go back to Winston-Salem again," she said, according to Holmes. "If I ever go at all, it will be solely to place flowers on Smith's grave

The entire Holmes family is bitter in its attitude toward the coroner's jury's verdict that Reynolds was shot by person of persons unknown.

"It was an unfair and unjust

Southworth Played His First Ball In Pickaway

Columbus Red Bird Boss Was First Managed by Harry Moore, This City.

Billy Southworth, new manager of the Columbus Red Bird baseball club of the American Association, may be claimed as a Columbus sandlotter but Pickaway-co, in fact the Darbyville vicinity, claims to be the first place he ever played the national game.

The story goes that young Southworth more than 20 years ago as a youngster, was a baseball fan but because of his youth had never been permitted to play the game. One day while the Darbyville Independents, managed by Harry Moore, local shoe merchant, was playing at South Bloomfield, Bishop Hill, Moore's first sacker, was injured and without a substitute available Moore was in a 'picklement.'

"FIRST OR NOTHING"

Just as his hopes were dampest a youth, younger brother of Calvin Southworth, Darbyville's excellent left handed pitcher, went to Mr. Moore and asked if he could play the position. The Darbyville manager looked at him and said "Why, you're too young, you can't play this kind of baseball. But," badly in need of a ninth player Moore said, "You can go into the outfield and we'll put some one else on first base." "Not by a jugfull," (or words to that effect) replied the enthusiastis Billy, "I'll play first base or I won't play at all" To make a long story short he went to first base and proved to be the star of the game.

He remained with the Darbyville team all through that summer playing mostly in the outfield after Hill, the first sacker returned, and the next year his father removed to Columbus

BROTHER HURLER

Billy Southworth's father and mother lived at a cross-roads called Saranac between Five Points and Darbyville at that time. His father operated a blacksmith shop. Billy's elder brother, Calvin, was the ace of the mound staff. The Southworth family originally come from Murray City, Athens-co

Some members of the Darbyville team at the time of Southworth's advent into the great national game were John Phillips, W. Mansi, who played shortstop; Clarence Porter of Monroe-twp an outfielder; Parl Timmons of near Fox Post Office, a pitcher and outfielder; a catcher named Maupin who now resides in Columbus, Ed Hill, now a resident of California Bishop Hill the first baseman, and Bert Devany, another star, have both passed on.

Yes, Billy Southworth migh be claimed as Columbus "Own' but he learned his first baseball in Pickaway-co

Another Full Game Added As Chapman's Homer Wins and Grove Loses.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Whatever became of Babe Ruth?

We mean the big husband and home-loving gent who used to beat a theme song that was beloved of his fellow countrymen on a sunny afternoon.

Maybe the old rotarion is out scouting around for beer factory sites for Uncle Jake Ruppert

Anyway here it is mid-July with holes in the summer underwear already and Babe has only 24 home runs stored away in the pantry. Whereas Jimmy the Foxx of the Athletics has 34 and if you don't mind going to Philadelphia Chuck Klein in the National League has 25. And among league leading hitters the great Ruth is as absent as corned beef hash at the Ritz.

CHAPMAN STARS

At that, don't think we're always belittling. The noble Yankee didn't get a hit yesterday as the royal Rupperts gloomed the St. Louis Brownies 4 to 2 but he got one by walking twice and scored two runs, lumbering home like a Carnera in the sixth to tie the score, so when Ben Chapman homered with one on all argument ceased.

The Yank win widened their lead as the Athletics collapsed again before the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 6. Grove was hit for 18 smacks by the Ohio agents, Eddie Morgan grabbing off a homer.

The league leading Pirates saddened Brooklyn once more, a triple by Dugas in the twelfth inning rolling it off, 8 to 7. Johnny Frederick punch-hit a homer in the ninth to tie things up

Pat Malone wouldn't give the Boston Braves more than eight safeties and then singled with two out in the ninth to come home with the run that won, 4 to 3, for the Chicago cubs.

Mr. Appling, shortstop for Chicago's pale ones stuttered loud and long in the tenth, when Spencer cracker a single and Washington scored to record a 13 to 12 triumph.

Cincinnati started paying rent in the celler again, a wild throw by Morrissey giving the Giants a 4 to 3 edge in the ninth.

Bob Kline was a better pitcher than Vic Sorrell and Boston's Sox beat Detroit 3 to 2.

Homers by Jim Collins and Watkins put it on the platter, 7 to 6, for St Louis over the Phillies.

The tax on cosmetics ought to put a different complexion on the situation.

3-I LOOP TOPPLES

DECATUR, Ill., July 13.—Directors of the Class B three-eye league were to meet today to tackle problems arising from the with-drawal of the Decatur club and the threatended disollution of the Springfield team.

The Decatur club resigned from the league last night a few hours after President Claude Barr of the Springfield organization announced that his club was no longer in a position to continue activities.

With withdrawal of Decatur and the anticipated disollution of the Springfield team, only four clubs will remain in the curcuit. They are Quincy, Peoria, Danville and Terre Haute.

AUTOS AND HELP OUSTED BY TOWN

BUCYRUS, July 13.—Taking the position that anyone driving a car does not need aid from the poor relief committee of the city, Mayor Arthur Schuler declared that destitute persons who possess an auto must surrender their license tags before they are extended any help.

"For some time past we have had the rule of not providing relief to those who were driving their automobiles," said the mayor. "This, however, was not rigidly enforced but from now on you can depend upon it that we will bluntly refuse aid to anyone who fails to give up their license plates"

Surrender of the license tags will prevent use of money given for food to purchase gasoline, it was pointed out, as the automobile cannot be run without the tags.

Warden Answers Many Queries As To His Opinion

COLUMBUS, July 13.— So many questionnaires are being sent to Warden Preston E. Thomas asking his opinion on capital punishment that the Ohio State penitentiary official has drawn up a form answer.

Many copies have been mimeographed and when the warden receives a letter requesting his idea on the capital punishment question, a copy is mailed to the information seeker.

Most of the queries, the warden said, are received from high school debaters And to them, he includes another printed sheet which gives both sides of the question

In his mimeograph response, the warden declared that he favors capital punishment for "brutal, premeditated, cold-blood murder."

"My sympathy," he said, "goes out to the widow and orphans of the victim of the foul assassin rather than to the man who committed the grave offense"

Warden Thomas based his argument on the Bible, pointing out that at the time of the Flood, everyone but the persons on Noah's Ark were drowned as a punishment from God

He also cited history, saying that Henry VIII, seeking to block a crime wave after the War of the Roses, ordered 72,000 executions

"There has been no crime wave in England since," he concluded.

VILLAGE WITHOUT TAXATION WORRY

CLEVELAND, July 13.—All you really have to do in the world is die and pay taxes, says an old saw

But out in Cinder Park, which one might call a Cleveland suburb they don't even have to worry about paying taxes. Cinder Park was founded by a strange assortment of unemployed men at the edge of a dumping ground along the lake front and East 65th-st.

Hoover-ave is its only street; Prosperity bridge its only civic improvement—a narrow slippery bridge across the dirty stream that flows out of the slag heaps.

Mayor Bill Schneider works without salary. So does Garbage Collector "Cowboy Joe" Klune His job, when times are tough, is to select the choicest morsels from the garbage dumps for the community stew for the evening dinner

Others in the community beg money and food which they share with the entire citizenry

There are conveniences of a sort, in Cinder Park Hot water is obtained from the stream from the slag heaps which passes through the Union Salts company works. The lake makes a nice bath tub or bathing beach

"We're as well off as the bonus marchers," Mayor Schneider says And his subjects agree with him

NEW BUILDING ERA SEEN BY ARCHITECT

CINCINNATI, July 13.—Predicting the end of "sky-scraper existence," Frank Lloyd Wright internationally famous architect, foretold here recently a new era of American home building.

In the future, according to Wright, Americans will buy rooms for their homes even as they purchase furniture today. He declared he had worked out plans for the innovation.

"They will be homes of simplicity and beauty," he said. "There is a standardization bathroom with standardized equipment that can be purchased as unit No 1. Then unit No. 2 is a standardized kitchen with its facilities all ready to be connected up. A third unit is a sleeping room

"A man could order these three units and as his needs and his family grew, he could order more and all would fit into each other symmetrically and his home would continue to grow in an orderly and beautiful manner"

In his speech before the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the architect predicted the end of "Skyscraper existence."

"The present business slump," he said, "marks the end of the epoch of centralization. The crossroads filling station will become the nucleus of a new, urban civilization."

Develops Vaccine for Tuberculosis

Dr William D. Frost, agricultural bacteriologist at the University of Wisconsin, who has climaxed 29 years of research by development of a vaccine proposed for partial control of tuberculosis Dr Frost states that his vaccine "is not proposed as a sure cure or even as a sure means of prevention." He maintains that vaccines probably will prove most important in control of the dread disease and his method of obtaining a vaccine renders the bacilli physically harmless

RELIEF BILL

ready passed the House and was pending in the Senate This obviated much red tape

Democratic House leaders, using their "gag" power, proposed to put the bill through after 40 minutes debate, with the right of amendment limited to the ways and means committee

Conferences with administration spokesmen were planned early today to finally determine whether the Senate bill is acceptable to the President. If it is not, it will be amended in the House and returned to the Senate.

PROVIDES LOANS

As the measure neared final passage it provided $300 000,000 in loans to states for the needy, $1,500,000,000 loans through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for self-liquidating projects to provide employment, and $322,000,000 in federal public works

The Senate amended the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to remove Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve board, and Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner, from the board of directors. President Hoover made the request because of their other duties.

Mr. Hoover's request that the board membership be increased from seven to eight and made non-partisan was turned down. Sen. Robinson (D) of Arkansas declared that an increase in the board membership would create unnecessary expense.

The bill carried $22 000,000 specific appropriations for housing and other construction at army posts and airports despite the protest of Sen. Couzens (R) of Michigan against such expenditures.

proceeding," Holmes said. "It was a clear case of suicide and nothing else"

The young widow remained in the private drawing room throughout the entire trip back to her home city. No one, except her parents and sister, has seen her face since she left the Reynolds estate. When a conductor went into the drawing room, she threw her hands over her face, food was brought to her on a tray, but it went back to the train kitchen untouched.

RED CROSS TO

the flood-stricken area was located at Ballaher, a short distance from Hansford near the mouth of Paint Creek. Through this and other stations, Red Cross officials were serving practically the entire valley

A survey of the Paint Creek sector indicated that it suffered more from the effects of the flood than did the Armstrong Creek district Nineteen of the known dead were found along Paint Creek. Two were in the Armstrong Creek section.

The total damage to Paint Creek alone was estimated at $1,500,000 and that along Armstrong Creek was expected to be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 Officials estimated that 142 dwellings, including several school houses were destroyed.

'MERC' NEAR 90

With warmer weather predicted and added to the sweltering temperatures of the present, Circleville is scheduled to experience some real heat during the next few days

According to Dr H. R. Clarke, fair and warmer weather is in order for the rest of the week.

The temperature at noon today was 82 degrees and it was expected to go above the 90 mark during the afternoon.

The highest mark reached Tuesday was 85 and the "merc" fell to 57 during the night for a low mark.

ROTARY CLUB TO HEAR M'SWEENEY

John McSweeney, Ohio director of welfare, will be the speaker at the Rotary meeting Thursday noon.

DEFFENDS GUARDS

COLUMBUS, July 13.—National Guardsmen were defended by Governor George White today, for firing on strike rioters in the Athens and Belmont-co coal fields.

Referring to gun battles with alleged strike pickets this week when two men were killed, supposedly by the rifles of militiamen, the governor said:

"After investigating, I have no criticism of any of the guardsmen"

BRAZILIAN TROUBLE IS FEARED SERIOUS

RIO DE JANERO, July 13.. — The minister of war today authorized the voluntary enlistment of reservists of the first and second classes to cope with the revolution in southern Brazil.

The government is taking measures to assure that there shall be no interuption in food supplies to Rio De Janeiro.

(EDITOR'S NOTE— The reference in the above message passed by the Brazilian censor as a precautionary measure to safe guard the food supply for the Brazilian capitol indicates that the revolutionary outbreak is more serious than previous dispatches reported.)

Maybe having to work wouldn't be so terrible if you didn't have to do it for a living.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxture candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. Else it will shame. © 1931 C. M. Co.

At The Grand

The splendid tenor voice that brought fame to John Boles in musical pictures two years ago will be heard again here Thursday, this time from the screen of the Grand Theater, where "Careless Lady" will make its bow to local audiences.

While this is not a musical film in the usual sense, both Boles and Raul Roulien, the Brazilian who made his debut recently in "Delicious," have a tuneful song number apiece, composed by James Hanley and Ralph Freed Joan Bennett has the feminine lead of a New England girl who goes abroad to gain experience and finds more than she bargained for, while Boles has the role of her principal admirer.

Minna Gombell, Weldon Heyburn, Nora Lane, Josephine Hull, J. M. Kerrigan, John Arledge, James Kirkwood and Fortunio Bonanova have the chief supporting parts. Guy Bolton wrote the screen play from the original story by Reita Lambert. Kenneth MacKenna directed.

DECLINE IN DEATH RATE OF THREE DISEASES DISCLOSED

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 13. — Declines in the death rates for tuberculosis, pneumonia and influenza among the industrial populations of the United States and Canada, were the chief factors in making 1932, for the first five months, at least, the best of all health years. That health conditions have continued to improve more than in any comparative five month period is shown by an unprecedentedly low deathrate of 9.2 per 1,000.

The previous low point for the January-to-May period was 9.5 per 1,000, recorded in 1930; the figure last year was 9.8. Among these persons living in the Pacific Coast and Mountain States, the deathrate at the end of May this year was 3 percent below the previous minimum; in the rest of the United States it was 2.5 per cent lower than ever before, and among about 1,200,000 Canadians 4 per cent lower. Health conditions among this large cross-section of the populations of the two countries has proved in the past, to be, a true index of health conditions among the general population.

MAY LOWEST

For the month of May, 1932, the lowest deathrate, with a single exception 8.5 per 1,000, was recorded. The exception was May, 1931, when the date was 8 4 per 1,000

"Large drops in the rates for three important causes of death have been the chief factors in making 1932, to date, the best of all health years," says the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's Statistical Bulletin. "The record for tuberculosis is the most noteworthy item. The mortality for all forms of tuberculous disease at the end of May, was more than 10 per cent below the 1931 figure for the like part of the year; in two years the reduction has amounted to 14.6 per cent Inasmuch as the part of the year in which the highest mortality from tuberculosis always occurs is now past, it is quite safe to predict that not only will a new low point be reached this year in the deathrate, but that the reduction will be a large one.

"The mortality from pneumonia is also lower than it has ever been during the winter and spring seasons The decline, as compared with the first five months of 1931, is 20.6 per cent A still greater drop, 27 per cent, is in evidence for influenza

"The deathrate for accidents is 5.7 per cent below that for the like part of last year and the figure for automobile fatalities is 4.9 per cent lower Diseases of pregnancy and childbirth are now causing fewer deaths than ever before.

TWO INCREASES

"No important diseases, except cancer and diabets, have registered noteworthy increases during 1932. The mortality from cancer is much higher than ever before with a rise of nearly 8 per cent since 1931, and of nearly 17 per cent in two years. The rise in the diabets deathrate, to date, amounts to 5.2 per cent and the indications are that in 1932 this disease will also record a new maximum mortality rate."

HELD FOR JURY

E R Roberts and wife, Lucille, of Bloomfield, Indiana, and Texas Slim Collins, returned to this city from Indiana two weeks ago on a warrant filed by J P Price for horse stealing, were bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond by Mayor Hedges Tuesday. They furnished bond and were released.

Texas Slim Collins filed a replevin suit in common pleas court Wednesday to get possession of a horse, the principal figure in the case. The animal is appraised at $1,100.

The Roberts' and Collins were preparing to leave town Wednesday.

Tom Renick and Richard Simkins represented the defendants and C. A. Leist, Carl Leist, C. A. Weldon and Lemuel Weldon of this city and John Phillips of Chillicothe were attorneys for Price. Paul E. Edkins, city solicitor and E L. Crist, prosecuting attorney, acted as counsel for Mayor Hedges.

Her Next Husband

Ruth Chatterton, famous star of the talking pictures, evidently is a believer in the maxim that it is not good for man, or woman, to live alone. Just as soon as her divorce from her present husband, Ralph Forbes, is granted she will wed George Brent, Hollywood's newest film hero, with whom she is shown here. Forbes is now in Reno seeking freedom.

BABY IS CALLED

Roger Allen Goff, one-year-old son of Allen and Grace Frazer Goff, died at the home, 312 Walnut-st, Tuesday at 4:45 p m. of acute dysentery. The Goff family had been residents of this city since July 4th.

Two half-sisters and a half brother survive besides the parents.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at the grave in Fletcher chapel cemetery near Harmony, O., with interment in charge of the Albaugh Co.

prevent a fight over prohibition at the state confab.

Such a stand by the state convention, in the opinion of Republican leaders, will dissuade the Anti-Saloon League from carrying out a threat to launch a third ticket movement of independent prohibitionists in Ohio.

Postmaster General Brown, Senator Fess, Col. Thad H Brown and Ed M. Martin, Brown's executive assistant, were to arrive here by plane from Washington today to complete plans for the convention.

HURLEY TO SPEAK

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who is to speak over a nation-wide radio hookup tomorrow at 9:15 p. m., answering the Roosevelt speech made at the Chicago convention, will arrive early tomorrow. The convention opens at 4 p. m.

In an effort to win dry support in Ohio, the convention is expected to select a prohibitionist for state campaign chairman, but no agreement has yet been reached, it was said today.

The veteran Senator Fess, whose voice was heard around the nation when he was keynoter of the Republican national convention at Kansas City in 1923, also will be keynoter at tomorrow's state convention.

FRENCH VETERANS TO VISIT NATION

NEW YORK, July 13.—Captain Henry L. Stevens, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, back today from Europe, said 500 French war veterans would come to America on September 19 in response to his invitation.

The visit is to return the one American veterans paid to France in 1927.

Man's Many Licenses

So many licenses are needed nowadays that one Huntingdon man holds ten—for shooting game, selling game, employing men, keeping a dog, carrying a gun, slaughtering horses, driving a car, owning a wireless set, running a car on the road, and piloting a plane.—London Mail.

McNAUGHT ... 2 RUMORS ...

COLUMBUS, July 13.—The ... wet-dry war flared up ... as S. P. McNaught, ... of the Ohio Anti-Saloon ... denied two rumors allegedly ... circulated by anti-prohibitionists.

The two rumors are:

2. That rural Ohio has definitely turned away from the prohibition cause.

McNaught said:

"We certainly are not broke. We have no notes in any banks. This talk about us being broke and closing up our office doesn't harm us; it helps us.

"As for the rural Ohio 'bolt'—Rural Ohio is not wet today. There is just a clamor for a change. Of course the larger cities are wet, but what of that? Cleveland, for example, always was 'wet.'"

This Woman Lost 64 Pounds of Fat

Mrs. H. Price of Woodside, L. I. writes: "A year ago I weighed 190 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and now I weigh 126 and never felt better in my life and what's more, I look more like 20 yrs. old than the mother of 2 children, one of 19 and the other 18. My friends say it's marvelous the way I reduced."

To lose fat SAFELY and HARMLESSLY, take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—but don't take chances—be sure it's Kruschen. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

After Cocos' Gold

ROMANCE and adventure face the loss of their Cocos Island, and when that comes to pass romance is dead.

Cocos Island is to romance what fuel is to fire. It was on this tiny speck of rock and sand in the Pacific 250 miles from the South American mainland and on the equator that Capt. Edward Davis, buried according to legend, his loot from the sacking of Leon, Nicaragua, in 1685. That notorious pirate Benito Bonito is supposed to have cached his ill-gotten, blood-stained wealth in one of its caves. In 1821 the loot from Lima Cathedral, pilaged by Captain Thompson, a blood thirsty renegade if there ever was one, found its way to Cocos Island, unless legend deceives.

No less than 20 treasure-hunting expeditions have poked among Cocos' rocks and dug in Cocas' sands for the $75,000,000 in precious gems and metal supposed to be hiden there. That they failed to find pirate swag did not rob Cocos Island of its aura of romantic and adventure. Rather, it, enhanced it.

But unless some romantic soul steps in to prevent such a cataclysm, treasure hunters now operating on the island will shatter the whole tradition and murder romance in one of its few remaining havens.

So devoid of imagination and romance is this expedition that it is financed by a stock company and scorns forgotten maps in ancient cipher and the dying words of old salt for a mechanical gadget called a gold detector. And what is worse the romance-blasting device has found treasure, according to late reports.

Mark the words of any reader of Treasure Island and kindred books with a soul: No good will come of buried treasure discovered by such prosaic and matter-of-fact methods.

Postage Anomaly

NO business or individual need be reminded that since July 6 it has cost more to use the mails. Within 48 hours that three-cent rate for letters had made itself felt in every business and in virtually every home, and those who make use of other postal services are rapidly locating other increases in the postal scale.

Other postage boosts include three cents to the air-mail rate, from five to 10 cents on registered mail, and increases on publications for delivery within the publisher's postal district and in the advertising portion of second-class matter.

All of these increases except that applying to first-class mail are justified on the ground that the service has not been self-sustaining. While the results will be the same, the increases just made constitute a tax rather than merely a change of business policy. Especially is the higher letter rate a tax on business and personal correspondence.

Perhaps the high cost of postage stamps will balance the postoffice department's budget and help balance the entire federal budget and perhaps it won't, but the public will be paying for some experience the department should find valuable. Before many months have passed it will know just how much the traffic will bear.

—Credit Buying Sound

DURING that period of credit inflation from 1921 to 1929 a prediction often heard was that the first major business slump would wreck the instalment part of the retail credit structure. That slump has been with us nearly three years and the part of the credit structure which was to collapse first has not even trembled.

Department of commerce statistics prove that instalment buying today is in the same ratio to cash sales as during the prosperity era and that credit losses in this field have been surprisingly small compared with other credit losses.

Here is another instance of misplaced confidence. Although the least was expected of him, the private citizen has shown a better understanding of his credit limitations and financial institutions. The wage-earner has handled his credit better than the railroad managements.

Instalment houses are, it is true carrying along many accounts of the unemployed, but this money is not lost. And it speaks well for their financial strength and management that the depression has not hog-tied them with frozen assets.

Business is better today for the fact that credit merchandising came through its first great test with flying colors.

"EMBERS OF LOVE"

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Lily Lou Lansing, young and pretty telephone operator, gives up her opportunity for an operatic career to marry wealthy Ken Sargent. Ken's mother wanted him to marry the socially prominent Peggy Sage and threatens to have the marriage annulled. Ken and Lily Lou are stranded, but she assures him she will stick by him regardless of what happens.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

They had an apartment in a building on Filbert street, on Russian Hill. At night they could sit in their window and look out all over the bay, see the lights on the other side . . . pick out Lake Merritt . . . watch the flash of the light on Alcatraz. . . .

Lily Lou knew every nook and corner of her apartment. She had the rented linen and silver by heart. She thought the rooms were beautiful, and certainly they were nicer than any she had lived in before.

"Can we afford it?" she asked, a little frightened.

"Sure, it's much cheaper than the hotel."

They had been staying at the St. Francis. Ken had insisted. He said it would be just for a few days and they might as well start out right. It was thrilling for Lily Lou. The crowded lobbies, the long dining rooms with the scurrying waiters, the snowy tables, the people who all seemed rich and well dressed. Their room was nice, too, so large, so luxurious . . . Lily Lou would have been very happy, if she hadn't worried.

She wrote long letters on the hotel stationery . . . to her mother, to Bess, to May . . . to the boys. John and Earl . . . think of it! The youngest Lansing, sitting in her own room in a hotel like that, writing letters headed "Hotel St. Francis"—as if it were nothing at all!

But the answers from the family depressed her . . . they were so careful, so restrained. All but Bess—

"I'm sure I hope you'll be happy," Bess wrote, "and don't you mind what anybody says. You've got your own life to live, and you've got just as much right to a home and husband and babies as any of us, so the family can just shut up about that.

"Don't you care what Ken's family says, either. They may think they are the last word, but you can't tell me that any big business man is as good and kind as dad, and as for mother, we wouldn't trade her for any society woman. Don't you let them lord it over you. You're just as good as they are. I only hope that Kentfield is all you think he is. You deserve a real man, Lily Lou, and I only hope he turns out to be one!"

Lily Lou winced at that. She couldn't just make some polite answer. Bess would think she was changed already. . . .

So she wrote, with something like candor: "Yes, Ken's family was angry enough. Not very complimentary to me. But Ken broke with them when they tried to separate us. . . ."

"Tried to annul our marriage" was what she ought to write, but she couldn't quite do that. Instead, she added another paragraph:

"You don't have to worry about me. It is true that Ken lost his job with his father, but the very day he left his father's office he got a job, and a better one, at another place."

Putting that into writing made her feel safer, somehow. She hastened out to mail it. That would show Bess the sort of husband she had.

"He really is old for his age," she thought, determinedly, listening to his accounts of the office, at night. He really did seem interested and enthusiastic. She was foolish to worry that it wouldn't last. . . .

They had been in the apartment about a week when Ken came home a little late one evening.

"Dad came in to see me," he said guardedly.

Lily Lou pretended to bustle about the tiny kitchen. She stirred up the mashed potatoes, fussed with the biscuits she had heating in the oven. "What did he have to say?" she asked, when Ken just leaned against the kitchen door, watching.

Ken yawned. "Want me to do anything, Lily Lou? Oh, he didn't have much to say. He's trying to talk me out of it, of course."

The dish with the mashed potatoes leaped in her hands. "Trying to talk you out of what?"

"Oh, out of marriage, I guess." He laughed nervously.

Lily Lou was silent.

A little pulse over her eye began to throb. She put her hand over it. Tried to go on eating.

Then Ken came over to her, put his arms around her, loved her. The chops congealed on the plate. The coffee cooled in the cups.

"Lily Lou, nothing in the whole world could make me leave you—"

"Or be sorry you married me?"

"No, honey, nothing—"

She laid her cheek next to his. "I believe you, Ken."

And afterward she thought, "That puts the responsibility up to me."

They were so happy. So happy that sometimes she was afraid. Afraid it couldn't last, and she couldn't bear it if it didn't.

She took care of the little apartment herself, went out and bought flowers from the venders on the streets. Came back and arranged them carefully, sorting and choosing with happy care. Red gladiolas on the library table in the brass opium bowl, great double-flowered white stock on the highboy in the little square hall, spicy white pinks with threads of purple in the Holland glass bowl on the table between their two silk draped beds in the large rose and walnut bedroom.

May and Raymond came to dinner on Saturday night.

"This is something like," Raymond said, trying out the deepest armchair.

He lit one of Ken's cigars. Since their marriage Ken had taken to smoking cigars. Lily Lou knew, with a queer little lump in her throat, that it was because he thought they made him seem older. . . . Queer how much of his boyishness was slipping away from him.

"Some day I'm going to have an electric icebox," May was saying. She loved the little cubes, pored over the recipe book that went with it. "I'd make all kinds of frozen desserts if I had one. I could fix them in the mornings—"

Lily Lou showed her everything with proud pleasure. Her new clothes, not many, but nice. The pigskin dressing case with the dark red fittings, that Ken had given her. . . .

It was a lovely evening.

After they had gone, Lily Lou realized, with a little shock of pain that it was the first company they had had. They had been so happy alone that they hadn't missed anyone, but that wasn't the way to do. . . . She knew that. . . . It was the way May and Raymond lived. . . .

A little timidly she asked Ken if there wasn't someone he wanted to have for dinner and bridge.

"Sure. Maybe some night next week."

"Who, Ken? Who shall we have?"

"I don't know, honey. I'll think of someone—"

"Let's have it the first part of next week!"

She planned happily. Filet steak and green peas. Or was filet too expensive? But long before she had made up her mind, something happened, something that filled her with foreboding of tragedy to come.

Ken was late again. He hardly touched the beefsteak pie she had gone to so much trouble to make. "Headache?" she asked, anxiously.

"A little. Yes—it does—"

She sang to him softly after dinner. Little love songs, folk songs that he liked. She thought he seemed happier.

Some time during the night she woke. She heard a queer, choking, strangling noise.

"Ken—Ken—is that you?"

He did not answer.

She went to his bed, reached out to him in the darkness. She felt her hand wet with his tears. Ken . . . Ken was crying.

Lily Lou grasped the head of the bed, for support. The floor seemed to be giving way under her. She was afraid she was falling, falling through space, with the wind rushing by her closed eyes. . . But she knew she wasn't. . . She wasn't the kind who faints, or finds comfortable ways out. She was just standing there, grasping the bedpost for a moment because she felt dizzy. There was no gaping dark hole to swallow her up, the way she wished it would.

And Ken was lying face downward on his pillow, probably hating her because she'd waked up and knew he had sobbed. . . .

She didn't know what to do. Minutes passed. Long, miserable minutes. The funny, strangling sound had ceased.

She was suddenly desperate with loneliness. Anything but this terrible shut-out feeling . . . anything but that. . . .

"Ken!" Her voice was hardly more than a breath. "Ken—it's Lily Lou. . . . Are you . . . awake?"

She waited, and there was no answer.

Presently she crept back to bed. They were a little furtive and unnatural in the morning. She felt his awkwardness, and he felt hers.

"He knows . . . he knows I heard him cry," she thought miserably, cutting the grapefruit, measuring the coffee with curiously capable hands.

"Breakfast is almost ready, Ken!" she called in a voice that was meant to be natural and gay, and sounded loud and tin-canny to her own over-sensitive ears.

"Ready in a minute, honey," he answered in the same tone.

Lily Lou straightened the strip of embroidered linen on the built-in table of the breakfast nook. Rearranged the sugar and cream pitcher. For a moment she leaned against the wall, the backs of her hands pressed tight against her hot cheeks. She felt that she was choking.

If Mr. Hoover Has His Way

Eczema Most Common Disease of the Skin, but Is Not Contagious

While the Causes of This Distressing Malady Are Obscure, Careful Study of Diet Relieves Many Cases; But No "Cure" Is Known, Each Case Demanding Special Care.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ECZEMA is perhaps the most common skin disorder, causing more distress than any other disease of the skin. Hardly a day passes that I do not receive a letter requesting information and advice about this disorder.

Dr. Copeland

The mother of a child suffering from this ailment often becomes frantic in her efforts to give the child relief. The disease is indeed distressing, and sometimes persists in spite of every effort on the part of the mother. She may resort to the use of salves of every description, and often these do more harm than good.

Eczema may occur at any age. It makes up thirty per cent of all skin diseases, most often affecting children and infants, and is much more severe and persistent when it occurs in infancy. The cause is not known. It is believed by some authorities to be associated with faulty indigestion, or the use of foods that act as irritants.

Disease Not "Catching"

Eczema is described as an acute or chronic inflammation of the skin, and is characterized by redness, scabs and crust formation, with marked itching and burning. The eruption is moist, in contrast to psoriasis, with which it is frequently confused. Psoriasis is a dry, silvery, gray-like inflammation of the skin, without marked itching.

Most mothers fear eczema and believe it to be contagious. On this account children with eczema are often subjected to unnecessary embarrassment and unhappiness. Please bear in mind that the disease is not "catching," and cannot be transmitted from one person to another.

While eczema is seldom seen in breast-fed babies, it is of common occurrence in the infant that is weaned at an early age and has difficulty in becoming adjusted to the bottle formula.

Constipation must be corrected if it exists, and the disease is often cured as soon as disorders of the digestive organs are corrected. All centers of infection, particularly enlarged tonsils and adenoids, should be removed.

Improve General Health

If you have eczema, it is important to make every effort to improve your general health. Avoid excessive use of alcohol, tobacco, tea or coffee. Infections and nervous disturbances are frequently the fore-runners of eczema. Overwork, insufficient sleep and lack of relaxation also must be corrected before eczema can be cured.

Sensitiveness to one particular food often produces eczema. The diet should be carefully watched and all irritating foods avoided. Regular elimination is imperative, but the daily use of cathartics is not advised. If necessary, an enema should be taken.

Many salves and ointments are sold for the "cure" of eczema, but I want to warn my readers against the use of any remedy unless it is prescribed by a physician.

Eczema is often a stubborn condition. Do not become discouraged if the ailment does not quickly respond to treatment. Relief may not be obtained until every item in the diet has been studied, and it may take a long time before the underlying cause of the eczema is discovered and removed.

The Daily Horoscope

Wednesday, July 13, 1932

Those who have important business to transact, should get an early start today, for the morning shows up most favorably. There are indications of considerable activity connected with legacies and bequeathments. Much thought may be given to other people's possessions today.

Some of the most significant discoveries of this century are soon to be made public in connection with the world-old question of life after death. The indications all point to a greater interest in spiritual matters.

During the afternoon today, there are signs of financial difficulties for all who give way to excess confidence. It is a poor time to make loans or to go surety for others. The evening should be spent quietly at home as it is an unfortunate time for engaging in any excitement.

Children born on this date, are adaptable and are content in whatever environment they may be placed. They think and act quickly, and are often impatient with others who are slower in thought and action. When mature they will never be satisfied with inferior positions.

Distinguished personages whose birthday falls on this date are:

Albert Baur, 1835, German historical painter; John Dee, 1527, English mathematican and Astrologer.

At The Cliftona

Movie fans have an opportunity to see how a big hotel is run in Paramount's 'Reserved for Ladies,' in which Leslie Howard plays the leading role, and which is the Cliftona theater's feature picture for two days, beginning Today and Thursday.

In this picture will be seen faithful replicas of the kitchens and service stations to be found in the most efficient hotels. The picture also demonstrates many of the closely guarded secrets on an efficient head waiter, and the art of "dressing" a fashionable restaurant an art that ensures that the right people are placed where they will be seen, the wrong people where they will not be seen, and divorce people where they will not be annoyingly near each other, and that everyone is happy while dining.

In this picture Leslie Howard enacts the part of the high efficient head waiter of one of the world's most aristocratic seating places for the wealthy and socially prominent. He demonstrates the suavity and efficiency of popular maitres d'hotel and show why it is, they command such fabulous salaries.

CLEARING CARP FROM ST. MARY'S

ST. Marys, July 13.—Professional fishermen are using trap nets in Lake St. Marys as the state department of conservation wages its fight to exterminate all carp in the lake.

Hundreds of fish are caught in the trap nets daily and all excepting the carp are thrown back into the lake. Officials of the state game office are supervising the work.

Motion pictures are also being made of the task. They will be used by the conservation department for educational purposes.

Frank Wolfe, a commercial fisherman from Lake Erie, is in charge of trapping the fish. Carp, he said, ruin vegetation and make conditions hazardous for other fish.

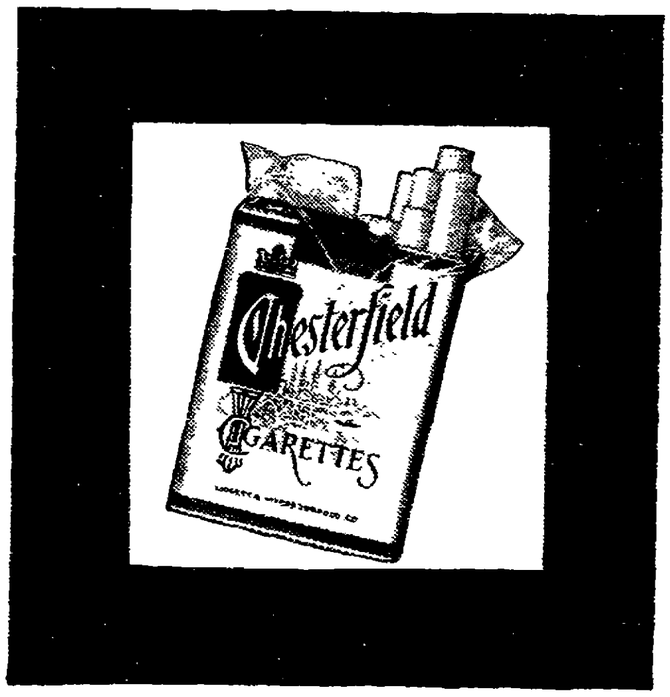
It's the Cigarette that's Milder and Tastes Better!



That's why more and more Smokers are changing to Chesterfield every day

WHEN you are smoking a lot of cigarettes every day, you naturally want a mild cigarette, and smokers try Chesterfields and find out that they are milder and taste better.

Then smokers tell other smokers—"one smoker telling another"—that they find that although they smoke a great many Chesterfields during the day, they never tire of them; and that they have found out that Chesterfield is a milder cigarette, that it is a cigarette that tastes better, that it is a cigarette with a most pleasing aroma.

Some time ago, in a Chesterfield advertisement, there was a statement, "A $90,000,000 Reason," and this means that the larger part of $90,000,000 is invested in the right kind of ripe, mild Domestic and Turkish tobaccos to make sure that Chesterfields are milder and taste better.

May we ask you to try them?
